New Operations in Tuberculosis Told

Surgeons Now Remove Small Pieces of Lungs.

NEW YORK.—Dr. Richard H. Overholt of Tufts medical school, Medford, Mass., has described to the American College of Surgeons, some new operations for tuberculosis.

This surgery not only removes entire lungs, which is not new, but lobes of lungs and even parts of lobes. This ability to take out small pieces of lung is one new development.

There are five lobes in lungs, three in the right lung, two in the left. Each is a virtually independent section with its own air and artery blood supply.

Overholt said the surgery is useful in cases where all other forms of tuberculosis treatment fail. He said the risk of removing either a lobe or an entire lung has been so reduced by surgical progress that the danger to the patient is minimal.

Like that of the United States, the first Harwell pile works with a uranium base.

Other countries reportedly planning atomic pile include France, New Zealand, Australia and—presumably—Russia.

Entire lungs were removed for the first time a few years ago for cancer.

A prediction that the number of surgical operations will decrease soon in a variety of diseases was made by Dr. Jacob J. Golub of New York.

He said those will be the diseases that can be better cured by preventive medicine, and by remedies from atomic ovens, from radioactive rays, hormones and antibiotics. The latter is a new name in medicine describing remedies such as penicillin and streptomycin that come from germs and molds.

Golub, however, said the total number of surgical operations is likely to increase, as there will be more of the accidents and other ills that surgery cures.

Russia Reassembles Big German Optical Works

BERLIN.—Russia is reported to be reassembling Germany's world-famed Zeiss optical works in five separate units scattered from Leningrad to the Urals, according to information filtering back from German workers.

(Recent reports indicate that the Russians have embraced a pattern of industrial decentralization as a defense scheme in the event of atomic warfare, with much of their production system sheltered in the vastness of the Urals.)

The information about Zeiss was sent back to Germany in letters by some of the 300 German researchers and technicians whom the Russians took along to the Soviet union when they dismantled the plant at Jena, in Thuringia, for reparations.

The workers wrote that the Zeiss machinery had suffered substantial damage from exposure to weather and from other causes in the long haul.

Britain Is Second Nation
With Working Atomic Pile

LONDON.—Britain has become the second nation in the world with a working atomic pile.

The first nuclear fission plant at Harwell, 12 miles south of Oxford, has begun taking.

The United Kingdom's first atomic pile is called "GLEEP" (graphite low energy experimental pile) and was built primarily for experiments in nuclear physics.

The pile is the first of three in a series of experiments in the use of atomic energy for power.

Other countries reportedly planning atomic pile include France, New Zealand, Australia and—presumably—Russia.

The Catholic Rural Life conference, headed by Monsignor Luigi Ligutti of Des Moines, Iowa, is assembling information relative to placing the displaced persons in this country if the Stratton bill is passed.

Figures compiled by UNRRA, the United Nations Relief and Administration, show that the displaced persons are principally Balts, from Estonia, Latvia and Poland. The majority, the report adds, are Catholics, with a small percentage of Jews.

The 85,000 displaced persons remaining in Europe have a wide range of skills in agricultural and allied fields, according to the UNRRA report.

Rule clarified on postage fee on mailing of ballots.

Action Sought on Refugee Measure

Senators to Report on Probe of Displaced Persons.

NEW YORK.—Renewed efforts to secure passage of the Stratton bill, which authorizes temporary emergency legislation permitting displaced persons to enter America, is expected when the 46th congress reconvenes in January.

The special senate committee which toured Europe during the congressional recess to investigate the plight of displaced persons, is expected to file its report by January 10. The senators inspected German detention camps where the displaced persons have been living since the war ended.

Welfare and religious organizations are canvassing the country to study the practical application of the proposed migration. Efforts are being made to find out where actual labor shortages exist in America, and to determine where these people, including many skilled workers, could fit into industry and agriculture.

An initial study by the Citizens Committee on Displaced Persons, an organization sponsored by 102 religious and welfare societies with the purpose of aiding displaced persons, indicates that there is a shortage of skilled workers in America. If any of the displaced persons are to be of use to the country, they must be able to find work.

The Catholic Rural Life conference, headed by Monsignor Luigi Ligutti of Des Moines, Iowa, is assembling information relative to placing the displaced persons in this country if the Stratton bill is passed.

Figures compiled by UNRRA, the United Nations Relief and Administration, show that the displaced persons are principally Balts, from Estonia, Latvia and Poland. The majority, the report adds, are Catholics, with a small percentage of Jews.

ADVICE ABOUT KEEPING WELL

"The man who thinks to conserve his health by uselessness and ease does not differ from him who guards his eyes by not seeing, and his voice by not speaking. . . . Least of all it is to be assumed that laziness is healthful. It destroys what health there is and it is not true that inactive people are more healthy."

This excerpt from Planch's essay Advice About Keeping Well, written over 2,000 years ago, might have been written yesterday. Had medicine and pharmacy been as well developed then as they are today, we are certain he would have stressed the value of a periodic physical examination by a qualified physician. By the same reasoning, it is wise to take your prescription to a registered pharmacist for expert compounding. We are prescription specialists.

State To Check
For Inspection
Stickers on Cars

There will be no extension of time for inspection of motor vehicles, and operators of uninspected cars will be subject to arrest after the October 31 deadline, according to State Police.

Col. C. W. Woodson, supt., said that "this year we allowed a full four months" to complete the inspection, while in the past the period had been only thirty days. The longer period was made necessary by conditions resulting from the war.

Where inspection stickers have been lost, operators may obtain duplicates by presenting white receipts to the original inspection station. Col. Woodson said that State Police would begin an enforcement check for missing test vehicles on Saturday, November 1.
